Tom has been with the Kentucky State Data Center since 1985. He works in collaboration with the Census Bureau's Population Estimates Branch to produce population estimates for the state, counties, and incorporated places and represents the KSDC in the Federal-State Cooperative Program for Population Estimates. He manages vital statistics and other administrative records databases used by the KSDC in research projects conducted for state and local governments, private businesses, and non-profit organizations.

Tom earned a Bachelor of Arts (1978) and a Master of Science (1985) degree from the University of Louisville. He lives in Louisville with his wife, Jenny, who is the Executive Director of Admissions at the University of Louisville. They have three daughters, all graduates of UofL. Tom is an active member of the St. Agnes parish where he works their annual Lenten Fish Fry, the St. Agnes Carnival, and coaches their 7th/8th grade volleyball team. He also coaches junior club volleyball for the Kentucky-Indiana Volleyball Academy (KIVA).
